AT HOME ON EARTH

MARTHA'S VINEYARD

Dear Reader,

We are grateful that so many Island readers open and enjoy Bluedot Living MV's biweekly newsletter. So many of you have also been contributors, inspiration, or the subjects of stories.

Beginning on January 15, the Bluedot Living newsletter will come to you directly from Bluedot Living's email platform. To continue, you will need to confirm your email address with this link, so you won't miss any Dear Dots, Local Heroes, climate quick tips, and yummy recipes. Please click here to add your email to the list and keep receiving the newsletter.

Stay in Touch with Email Updates

From news about climate issues to tips on building sustainable homes, wilding our backyards, or cutting back our household plastic use, Bluedot Living delivers enlightening and eco-conscious ways to reduce our impact on Earth.

The Martha's Vineyard Times has been a great friend in helping us stand up the magazine, website, and newsletter. We are immensely grateful.

Now we're ready to take flight on our own. These are very exciting times for us!

You'll find us in print every around the Island during the year and at the MV Times until April 1. Our first issue of 2023 – a special home and garden edition – will be out in early April.

In the coming year, we'll co-host important climate events about Island life (including a fun film and panel discussion about fashion – with a fashion show! – this summer). We're also planning to launch a subscription to the print magazine, so you can have it delivered directly to your PO Box or home. Stay tuned as we finalize the details.

Thank you to all for your interest and support, and Happy New Year!
